7. Read the passage given below carefully and answer the questions that follow :

Without a knowledge of grammar it is impossible for you to write correctly; and, it is by mere accident if you speak correctly. And pray, bear in mind that all well-informed persons judge of a man's mind (until they have other means of judging) by his writing or speaking. The labour necessary to acquire this knowledge is indeed not trifling. Grammar is not like Arithmetic, a science consisting of several distinct departments, some of which may be dispensed with. It is a whole, and the whole must be learned, or no part is learned. The subject is abstruse; it demands much reflection and much patience but, when once the task is performed, it is performed for life, and in every day of that life it will be found to be a source of pleasure or of profit or both together. And, what is the labour? It consists of no bodily exertion; it exposes the student to no cold, no hunger, no suffering of any sort. The study need subtract from the hours of no business, nor indeed, from the hours of necessary exercise. The hours usually spent in the tea and coffee shops and in the mere gossip which accompany them—these wasted hours, of only one year, employed in the study of English grammar would make you a correct speaker and writer for the rest of your life.

I learned grammar when I was a private soldier on the pay of six pence a day, under the most difficult conditions. And if I, under such circumstances, and without parents or friends to advise or encourage me, accomplished this undertaking, what excuse can there be for any youth, however poor, however pressed with business, or however circumstanced as to room or other conveniences?

(From Advice to Young Men
by William Cobbett)
